Key Challenges:

- To construct a two-story facility within an existing building while protecting the recently resurfaced indoor tennis courts.

Precision was the key to this project's success. This indoor tennis pavilion was renovated amidst existing outdoor tennis courts. The indoor tennis court surfaces had to be protected during demolition and construction because they had recently been resurfaced. In addition to the renovations, Bancroft constructed a new pro-shop, locker rooms and fitness room as well as decks around the complex for viewing and accessibility. The country club remained fully operational throughout the project. Through careful planning, coordination and signage, Bancroft completed this project without any disruption to the Club's clientele or staff - there were no complaints. The staff and patrons of the club were very pleased with Bancroft and the work that they performed.
